DETAILED ACTION

1. This Office action is in response to Applicant's amendment, filed on 01/20/2004.
2. Claims 1-17 are presented for examination.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1, 2, 3, 5-13 and 15-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103 (a) as being unpatentable over He et al. (U. S. Pat. No. 6,088,451) in view of Barrett et al (U.S. 2001/0042051A).

As per claims 1, 2, 3, 5-13 and 15-17 He discloses a system/method for securing access to network elements by user elements, wherein the network elements and the user elements are coupled to a network. A network security server coupled to the network security to control access to the network elements and protect network resources and information (which is seen to read as Applicant's claimed invention wherein it is stated that a system for assisting a user conducting a transaction on a secure site of a server to logoff), comprising:
the server including:

a secure transaction protection module that tracks a user's access state to the server (see., abstract, lines 7-13, fig 2, please note that user credentials or privileges also include Web site);

a database in communication with the secure transaction protection module, for storing data to be accessed by the user (see., abstract, lines 14-16, col 2, lines 12-34);

an identification module for validating the user's access to the database (see., abstract, line 7-13, col 2, lines 12-34); and a notification module for notifying the secure transaction protection module of a user's request to initiate a session on the server (see., col 31, lines 3038).

It is to be noted that He does not explicitly disclose wherein if the user selects site while logged on to the secure site of the server, the notification module sends a warning notice to the user to alert the user of an impending logoff from the secure site, and further sends a termination command to the secure transaction protection module for implicitly logging off (implicit logging off or leaving the secure site) the user from the secure site, and wherein response to the termination command, absent an instruction from the user to maintain a connection with the secure site exists the secure site, the notification module sends a message to the secure transaction protection module for logging off the user from the secure site. However, Barrett discloses web browsers that require that a security warning be displayed to the user which indicates that the user is leaving a secured communication channel (see., page 5, col 1, lines 21-48). Therefore, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the security system of He by including the limitations detailed above as taught by Barrett because such modification would provide the security system of He with the enhanced capability of notifying when a user exists the central controller or (secure site).

5. Claims 4 and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103 (a) as being unpatentable over He and Barrett in view of Official Notice.

As per claims 4 and 14 He and Barrett disclose the claimed limitation as stated in claims 1 and 2 above. It is to be noted that He and Barrett do not explicitly disclose a cookie. However, the Examiner hereby take Official notice that Cookie is well-known in the art, and therefore, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the teachings of He, Hess, and Sonderegger by including a cookie because it would provide with the enhanced necessary to control the network security based a cookie distribution.

RESPONSE TO ARGUMENTS

6. Applicant's argument filed on 01/20/2004 have been fully considered but they are moot in view of new ground (s) of rejection.
